L-r: Julian Bonder, architect, and Krzysztof Wodiczko, sculptor

The Babi Yar Park evaluation panel, comprised of members of the Mizel Museum board of directors, the Babi Yar Park Foundation and the City and County of Denver, has begun exclusive negotiations with the architect-sculptor team of Julian Bonder and Krzysztof Wodiczko for the Babi Yar Park memorial art project.

Bonder and Krzysztof, from Cambridge, Mass., were one of five teams that submitted proposals for the project.

The evaluation panel will hold meetings with Bonder and Krzysztof through April to obtain final designs for the elements in Babi Yar Park.

An announcement of the definitive design will be made at a later date.

"We are honored to be working toward a final project in Babi Yar Park," said architect Julian Bonder, known for his memorial projects worldwide.

Bonder is an associate professor at Roger Williams University's School of Architecture in Rhode Island.

Polish-born artist Krzysztof Wodiczko is known for his large-scale slide and video projections on architectural facades and monuments.

He is a professor and a director of the Center for Advanced Visual Studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The five finalists in the Babi Yar Park art project were: Brower Hatcher of Providence, RI; Dee Clements of Loveland, Colo.; Audrey Flack of New York, NY; and Zurab Tsereteli of Moscow.
